

Chrysalis 2025 – Edition II

The beauty of creation is amplified when it carries the undeniable imprint of the creator's soul.

On the 14th of August, 2025, the halls of Delhi Public School, Gurgaon resonated with passion as the school hosted the second edition of Chrysalis 2025, in the school auditorium. Meticulously planned and brought to life by the Core Team, Chrysalis II unfurled under the thought provoking theme of 'Meraki', a Greek term embodying the act of pouring one's soul, creativity, and love into one's work.

Against the backdrop of this evocative theme, Chrysalis II bore witness to six extraordinary voices including an alumnus speaker, a student speaker from of the Siksha Kendra, an afternoon school run by DPS for the underprivileged children and four student speakers from DPS Gurgaon. Each voice reminded the audience that when passion is harnessed with perseverance, it transforms into perfection.

The speakers held the audience spellbound, their words imbued with the weight of life experiences and heartfelt reflections. Mr. Sanmay Moitra, alumnus, 2020-21 through his speech, emphasised that true success lies not in accolades, but in compassion, kindness, and respect—especially towards teachers who profoundly shape our lives. Following him, Nitin Kumar, the speaker from Siksha Kendra, shared his own unfolding odyssey through the wondrous world of knowledge.

Dhruv Goel of class XI and Koisha Garg of class IX, the student speakers of DPS Gurgaon shared how a single push can alter the trajectory of life. Their stories of grit and gratitude, reminded the audience that, when opportunity meets determination, everything can transform. One of the speakers, Vritti Nagpal of class XI revealed how even a quiet rebellion expressed through the simple scratch of a pen, can speak volumes while Kaaya Pandita of class XII, shared a poignant story of belongingness, one that wove together generations, distances and the invisible filaments of memory.

As the final echoes of applause faded into the rafters, the Director Principal Ms Aditi Misra took the stage to deliver the closing remarks. She lauded each speaker for their courage and candour, and extolled the Core Team of Chrysalis for their seamless execution of the event.

Chrysalis 2025 Edition II, marked a luminous celebration of identity, resilience, and transformation. A testament to the timeless power of storytelling, which left every heart a little fuller, every mind a little wiser, and every soul a little more stirred.
